Re: Joel Rubenstein - Mississippi Project Applicant

Applicant seems to be a serious and responsible young man. He has been active in civil rights groups in the New York area. He worked on voter registration this past summer with Bronx CORE; participated in the demonstration at the World's Fair; and picketed the White Castle restaurant in New York. He is available to work in Mississippi for a year beginning February.

He feels that at this time it is important for the civil rights movement to concentrate on obtaining political power, and to focus on education in the South. The only slight reservation I have about him is that he sees no difference between the Peace Corps and SNCC. That is, he feels they are both working on community organization, education and self help programs. I think this is the result of political naivte rather than a missionary attitude.

He seems flexible enough and mature enough to adjust to, and meet the demands of the project. I would recommend his acceptance.

I believe strongly in equal rights for all citizens and I believe that the movement presents the best hope of achieving equality this country has ever had. I believe that the South with its Jim Crow tradition and its [redacted] intrenched poverty presents the greatest need for change. This need presents an equally great opportunity the Southern Movement can give this country an example that can stimulate change in the entire nation. The Southern Movement makes an important contribution to the nation and I would like to make a contribution to it. I think I have some skills that would be of use. And would like to make whatever contribution I can this of course is only one of the reasons. There are others but as I said motives and reasons are hard to communicate.
